

I believe that the ban on using cell phones in flight should be continued. Nothing will be worse than sitting next to someone on a transcontinental flight who insists on using the phone for the entire trip. Let them use the airphones installed on the aircraft. At the rates charged at least the call will be very short.